

“it is...incumbent on professionals serving communities...to develop approaches which tap into the local knowledge and capacities of communities they are supporting with a view to generating sustainable community driven responses, that build long term resilience and responses.”

Cormac Russell