

Large scale human service systems, can create the illusion of providing health, safety, comfort and the like, but theirs is a counterfeit promise. In fact, all they can deliver is consistency, order and the cost value of scale

John McKnight and Peter Block in Abundant Communities